Business Faitures.

New York, 12.-Much expitement was New York, 12.—Much expitement was caused in the produce exchange and the neighborhood by the announcement that the firm of E. W. Coleman, flour and grain commission merchants, 8 Water street, were neable to meet their obligations. In consequence of this news the market declined from 1½ to 2 cents a bankle or market and form 1½ to 2 cents a market declined from 1½ to 2 cents a bushel on wheat, and from ¾ to 1 cent a bushel on corn. Soon afterwards it was announced that J. M. Fuller & Co., grain brokers, Bridge and State streets, had also suspended and made an assignment. The failure of E. W. Coleman & Co. caused great surprise. The firm has been established more than thirty years, and done extensive busicess in flour and grain. Being "long" of wheat and corn (principally wheat), they gradually got into such a position that nothing but a decided turn of the market could re a decided turn of the market could re lieve them from the embarassment, and such a turn did not occur. Coleman & old member of the nobility called on Co. made an assignment for the benefit of their creditors. It is impossible at present to estimate the lia ilities, but London. they are beavy and the assets chiefly of such a character that they are not avai-able at present. Most of the firm's indebtedness is due outside this city. It is supposed the failure of J. M. Fuller & Co. was precipitated by the decline of the market consequent upon the suspension of Coleman & Co. The firm has been doing speculative business, and was "long of the market. It is not supposed that its liabilities are extensive. The firm was embarased about seven months ago, but managed to tide over. At the office it was stated that the liabilities would probably not exceed $100 000. The failure is due directly to a heavy dealing in what said that the liabilities. decline in wheat, and also to losses by the failure of Lane & Son and a Detroit house a few months ago.

McCloskey's Anniversary.

New York, 12 .- The fiftieth anniversary of the ordination of Cardinal Mc-Closkey was celebrated to day at the cathedral with all pomp and circumstance of the most joyous festival in the Catholic Church. The great building was througed with clergy and laity. Within the chancel were Archlishep Corrigan, Cardinal Coadjuster, Bishops Laughlin, Conroy, Spaulding, McQuaid, Ryan, Wigger, O'Farrel, McMirney and Wadhams, and about 150 priests. In Wadhams, and about 150 priests. In the body of the church were also 200 clergymen, with many citizers. Pontifical high mass was celebrated by Bishop Laughlin. The Cardinal did not appear within the chancel until after communion, when he entered in company with Monsigner Quinn and priests, and attended by his private secretary, Father Farley. He showed marked signs of feeblaness in gait, but pronounced benediction in clear tones. pronounced benediction in clear tones.

Our Lotta.

Chicsgo, 12.—Robert Laird Collier's current long letter to the Tribune dwells very largely upon Lotts's reception. The g'ievances and annoyance to which Lotts was subjected the first evening are as cribed by her manager to a supposed rival manager who employed a crowd of roughs to create a disturbance. Lotts's manager showed the correspondent a letter from other managers asking him to consent to a newspaper war that a furore might be created in the way of advertising. To this Lotts's manager paid no attention, and the disturbance on the first night was the denouement. Rev. Collier concludes the letter as follows: Last night Lotts appeared again to a very good sudience. She cut out Hymen and other objectionable things upon the advice of discreet friends, and there was not a hiss during the evening. She was often called before the curtain, and the performance was a distinct success. The sudience resented the mean and unworthy opposition of the opening night, and once more showed the Roglish people will always have fair play. I saw as sympathy for the unfortunate circum-

MARY ANDERSON'S PORTRAIT

A London newspaper tells how Mary Anderson's photographs are taken: It was not an unusual question, therefore, to ask Miss Anderson the other day how, with her numberless engagements and the demands upon her time, she con-trived to give sittings for all these pictures. "Well," she said, laugh-ingly, "it is a very simple matter when you know how it is managed. Partly, I am afraid, I am too good-natured. But what am I to do? I come down to breakfast and find a beautiful bouquet waiting for me. By its side lies a dainty little note. I open it and find a request from an enterprising photographer, which runs something like this: 'Madam: Every day we have endless inquiries for your photograph. We have, of coarse, to send our customers away without being able to satisfy their demands. Could you sit to our artist? We should be very grateful.

When more elaborate effects are required the photo-grapher takes his camera up to Miss Anderson's drawing-room, where, of course, better work can be done.

MR. HARRIS' BENEFIT,

The only theatrical attraction immediate at either house is the benefit to be tendered to the veteran doorkeeper of the Theatre, by the Home Dramatic Club and other ladies and gentlemen on Wednesday evening next. The cast of the Green Lanes will be nearly the same as that with which the play made its decided hit during Conference time, the only exception being the substitution of Mr. Lind-say for Mr. O. F. Whitney, in the character of the blind farmer, Martin Wheatstone. There are few sensational plays on the stage as strong as the one selected for this benefit, and its popularity will doubtless be shown by a heavy patronage.

Alonzo Schwartz, better known as "the Phonix Jew," died in New Jersey on the 2d of the present month. Milton Nobles' great success in this city on the first representation of The Phonix, was largely due to the excellence of the Dutch Jew character enacted by Mr. Schwartz; and the saying in the play, "Visconsin, led's ged blind tonight," was long quoted and laughed over after the company's departure from this city.

I have been very sick over two years. They all gave me up as P cure. I tried the most skillful pl sicians, but they did not reach worst part. The lungs and hea would fill up every night and di trees me, and my throat was ver bad. I told my children I neve should die in peace until I had trie Hop Bitters. I have taken tw bottles. They have helped me ver much indeed. I am now well. The was a lot of sick folks here wh have seen how they helped me, an they used them and are cured, and feel as thankful as I do that the is so valuable a medicine made.
